

Deák a hegyen

| CC-BY-NC-ND-4.0

I believe this image was taken at the beginning of 2003 (and, given the time, this was analog film; a rather cheap one as well, sadly). We arrived at our sky camp, in Italy earlier, than expected, in a beautiful weather. Given this was with my high school, we had our PE teachers with us; one of them asked if we were up for a "walk". Only a few decided to go, which was fortunate: while you stayed on the path, it was fine, but if you happened to take a step away, you immediately found yourself waist deep in snow. It's annoyingly troublesome to get out of waist deep snow, did you know that?

The image was taken at the point when we decided to turn back, before the sun sets on us.

Created by Peter Molnar <mail@petermolnar.net>, published at 2003-03-01 09:00 UTC+02:00, last modified at 2021-05-11 11:49 UTC , to canonical URL <https://petermolnar.net/photo/deakahegyen/> , licensed under CC-BY-NC-ND-4.0 .