During my elementary school, our go to ski "resort" was Donovaly. It's small, it's cheap, but at least we knew it well. One morning, when I turned around, I saw sea of clouds for the first time in my life. Unfortunately the camera with me wasn't half decent; neither was the film - remember, this is before 2000 (if my memory serves well, 1998, to be specific), but at least I have a picture of it.
